LOCATION / MAP OF THE VILLAGE OF THREE OAKS

NARRATIVE PROFILE

History

The first settler arrived in what was to become the Village of Three Oaks in 1835. The area as covered in dense forest which settlers cleared by hand. Five years later, the first school house was built and construction of the first sawmill soon followed. In 1848, land was cleared for a railroad. The founder of Three Oaks, Henry Chamberlain, and his partner Joseph Ames built the first store in 1854. The Village was incorporated in 1867.

Although the Three Oaks area experienced healthy growth, it wasn't until 1883 that industry became an important part of the city. One three Oaks store owner, Edward K. Warren, often had customers who complained about being jabbed by broken corset stays. While on a buying trip to a Chicago feather duster factory, he noticed large quantities of turkey feathers being burned as a waste product. Upon inquiry, Warren learned these were wing feathers that were too stiff for use in feather dusters. He had the idea of using the feather quills for corset stays and, subsequently, invented the featherbone. Featherbone was made by stripping the feather to a quill, splitting the quills lengthwise and removing the pith, then binding them into strips. Buggy whips with a featherbone center were produced a few years after the corset stays hit the market. Within a year the company's staff grew from nine to seventy-five. The Warren Featherbone Company is still in business today, but moved from Three Oaks in the 1950's. Portions of the original Featherbone factory still stand as a monument to that prosperous venture.

Observations

The Village of Three Oaks is a rural community surrounded by farms with dedicated community-minded natives, and a new number of arrivals evidencing old-fashioned warm hospitality. There is also a growing art community within the Village. The Village has the largest Flag Day Parade in the country (June), which includes a fun-filled weekend that hosts the Apple Cider Century, a nationally recognized weekend bicycle ride attracting over 7,000 bikers.

Three Oaks is still a picturesque little village with quaint old fashioned stores, included a meat market with sawdust on the floor and renovated bank and depot buildings that are the envy of history buffs throughout the state.

Three Oaks natives, known as "Oakers", have been very active in improving the looks and facilities of their Village. Recently, a new water plant was installed which ended the Village's water pollution problem. The community enjoys a low crime rate, beautiful parks, and an excellent school system, which make it very attractive for families with young children.

The old Featherbone factory now houses a theater and is the home of several artists.

Community Vision

- A. Improve the sidewalks in the Village.
- B. Construct a Community Band Shell in Dewey Cannon Park to be used for special occasions and weekly concerts by local bands and choirs.
- C. Complete the Watkin's Park (Basketball, pavilion, playground and restrooms).

Agenda of the Community Strategic Plan

There is no current strategic plan available.
